PCC To Host 2017 Commencement Exercises On Friday

One of the largest graduating classes in recent Pamlico Community College history is eligible to participate in the college's 2017 Commencement Exercises on Friday, May 12, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Ned Everett Delamar Center on the college's Grantsboro campus.

In all, 119 men and women have qualified to graduate from Pamlico Community College over the last year, including those who completed their coursework in the current Spring 2017 semester, the Fall 2016 semester and the Summer 2016 session.

Those students have earned a combined 177 academic credentials, including 64 associate's degrees, 16 diplomas, 92 certificates and five Continuing Education credentials.

PCC President Dr. Jim Ross, who assumed the college's top job last July, will preside over his first commencement as the college's fifth president. State Sen. Norman Sanderson of Arapahoe will give the commencement address.

"Commencement is an exciting time for everyone at Pamlico Community collection of a local resident. Per Erichsen, President of the Arts Council, said that the organization makes a point of choosing prominent local artists for the annual poster. "Our committee thought that Sue Henry's work over the past few years has been astonishingly good and should be recognized,' Erichsen said. In past years, he said, the Arts Council has featured work by Charlotte Garrett, Julie Gaines-Summers, Jante Adkins and Marlene Miller. "It's wonderful that we have so many seriously good fine artists in our community," he added.

The poster was designed by Marguerite Chadwicke-Juner, a well-known fine artist and graphic designer, who has recently moved to the area full-time and is a member of the Arts Council Board of Directors.

Aside from works by approximately 40 artists and craftspeople, Art on the Neuse, will feature live music all day from Ken Belangia,

College, particularly for our graduates and their families," Ross said. "We commend the students for their hard work and many sacrifices to become graduates of our college, commend the PCC faculty and staff who have worked hard to assist them throughout their time with us, and look forward to the Delamar Center filled with lots of happiness and pride."

Vice President of Student Services Jamie Gibbs expects the evening to be emotional for many.

"Commencement allows each graduate, family member and employee to see the fruits of their labor," he said. "Seeing the students achieve their goals and embark on new paths provides me great joy. To the graduates, I say, 'thank you for choosing Pamlico Community College.""

During the ceremony, the college's Academic Excellence Award/Student of the Year winner will be announced. The college also will honor its Instructor of the Year, Adjunct Instructor of the Year, Staff Person of the Year, Alumnus of the Year and President's Award recipient.

NEW LEASH ON LIFE" Program - Everyone deserves a second chance" PAWS rescues adoptable shelter dogs and pairs them with inmate trainers at the Pamlico Correctional Institution. The inmates learn patience, responsibility and teamwork along with new, marketable skills.

The dogs are vetted, vaccinated and altered, house, crate and leash trained, and receive basic and advanced obedience, agility and rally training. These well-behaved companions graduate every eight weeks, ready to join new, forever families - maybe yours?

Hello I'm Zeta , a chocolate lab cattle dog mix and sweeter dog you won't find. I so truly want to please my family. A medium size girl with a low energy level around 40 lbs and 1 1/2 years old. I already will come when you call me, have been good with other large and small dogs, and am very obedient. I'm still trying to figure out cats, so a home without cats or cats that are dog savvy would be best. I also really love children, so hopefully you have some around. I can't wait for you to come to my graduation, so I can show you all the new things I'll have learned.

Hello there I'm Mattie sometimes known as 'Mattie Moo" because of my beautiful spots. I'm a 2 year old lab hound mix that is mellow and very low energy. A 65 lb sweet love bug that is good with cats and all dogs large and small. I'm never pushy and I just love people. As a matter of fact I'm so good in the home that I won't get on your furniture or counter surf. Best of all I'm great with children.

All New Leash on Life dogs are fully vetted, altered, heart worm tested, and micro chipped. After they've graduated from the New Leash on Life program they have 8 weeks of crate training, housebreaking, leash experience, with some obedience and agility work. If you're interested in adopting one of our dogs contact Jackie at 252-649-5504 or Penny at 252-249-1453 and fill out an adoption application at Pamlicopaws.net. All adopting families are invited to their dog's graduation the middle of June.

You can also email PAWS at mail.pamlicopaws.net and download an adoption application at pamlicopaws.net on the individual dog's page .

ance, the right to graduate. They earned a combined 177 academic credentials, including 64 associate degrees, 16 diplomas, 92 certificates, and five continuing education credentials. Many of the graduates will, along with their parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins, children, and other loved ones, be at the Delamar Center this Friday to take part in commencement, one of higher education's most cherished formal ceremonies, and to celebrate an important milestone in their lives.

Many PCC faculty and staff will also attend, cheer them on, and congratulate them. Since I was fortunate enough to begin serving this college and community as PCC President about 10 months ago, I was immediately struck by the extraordinary degree of dedication and hard work of our faculty and staff that translates to helping students succeed.

One of the best examples was seeing this year many new students enter our college feeling insecure, frightened, and terrified of failing, only to be guided, supported, and encouraged to achieve success by PCC staff and faculty. I love to visit with our students on nearly a daily basis by walking around and talking to those I see, visiting their classes, and encouraging them to see me if they are having problems in school in any way.

The reoccurring message students give me when we visit is that they quickly feel a part of a family here due to the warm and caring personal touch they receive. Employees going above and beyond the call of duty is overwhelmingly the norm at PCC. Our employees are why we have the fifth highest graduation rate in the entire nation. They are why our students who go on to the University of North Carolina system earn the highest rate of success there among all community college students. They are also why our students who go on to the university system earn a grade point average at the university that is actually higher than those students who started day one at the university!

When you think about it, that is a commendable credit to our faculty and staff. PCC is an open-door admission college, meaning we proudly accept top scholars from high school but also accept those who had terrible high school grades and need a second chance.

I am an idealist. I strongly believe it is indeed possible to change the world for the better, and in fact, that this is our purpose while

PAMLICO COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Dr. Jim Ross Discusses

Dr. Jim Ross, PCC's President, Publicly Thanks PCC Faculty and Staff

Question: Why do you frequently thank PCC employees for the work they do?

Perhaps the best answer is because I think this is an outstanding group who deserve the greatest possible appreciation. This Friday more than 100 men and women who have been students at Pamlico Community College will become graduates. These 119 people have earned, through their hard work and persever-

living in this world. When we help other people live better lives, we do change the world for the better. I have found that setting a shared vision with employees and others of doing something noble together - something big - to sincerely change lives, and then recognizing and thanking them for their efforts, great things can happen. It is extremely gratifying that this past year extremely important accomplishments have been achieved here at PCC that can make this college even better in serving our community and make many lives better. These accomplishments came about because of high-achieving teamwork of our outstanding employees, as well as blessings we have received of developing wonderful partnerships with incredibly supportive and caring community leaders.

That's why I start virtually every meeting at the college with two words: "Thank You!" I take time as often as possible to thank Pamlico Community College's hard-working employees to their face and publicly for the important work they do. I often tell them that beyond the well-maintained grounds of the college's campus lies a world that needs to be helped. I urge our employees to become not only better employees so they can do their jobs better, I urge them to become better human beings so they can touch countless more lives in all they do. By doing so, PCC employees are working to help our world, make it better, and make people's lives better.

One year ago this week, I was interviewed for the PCC presidency. I was impressed with the college Board members, the beauty of the community, the friendliness of its people, and the dedication of the college's employees. I felt that if I were fortunate enough to be hired, my wife and I would be happy here. Most importantly, I knew that I would be surrounded by another high-achieving team.

When I became president, I felt it was important to get to know the employees and for them to get to know me. That's why I set the ambitious goal of meeting one on one with every full-time faculty member and staffer during my first year at PCC. It took many months, and we accomplished it! In doing so I learned a lot about the college, our community, and received many good ideas about how to improve our services to Pamlico County. It helped tremendously in developing teamwork and a shared vision of working together to do great things to make lives better.

In short, I have found the employees here are second to none. They are passionate about what they do. They want to help students and they want the region to improve. That's exactly the kind of people who make up high-achieving teams, and that's the kind of citizens who can take a bold, shared vision of positive change and work together to make it happen.

To PCC Board members, employees, students, alumni, and community members, it is an honor to serve you as President of Pamlico Community College. Thank you all!

The Pamlico News provides an opportunity for Dr. Jim Ross, Pamlico Community College's president, to write a monthly column. Dr. Ross has an extremely impressive record of extensive leadership accomplishments in community colleges, business, and non-profits based on encouraging high-achieving teamwork to make communities better. Dr. Ross is going throughout Pamlico County to hear ideas and form partnerships so that PCC can help make our county even better. He welcomes the opportunity to meet you and hear your suggestions or questions. Please email jross@pamlicocc.edu or call 252-249-1851 ext. 3007 to contact him.

4A Things To Know

Pamlico Outdoors...Our Little Piece Of Heaven Cycle NC Turns Peddling To Paddling

By Bill Hines With 1400 cyclists returning to Oriental, after visiting two other coastal towns, the Town of Oriental was able to offer to the cyclists another local experience-Kayaking. With the help of 14 volunteers, we were able to put 113 on the water. Volunteers trained, launched, landed and carried boats. We even had a volunteer dog that helped other dogs to kayak. Friday and Saturday, we were able to offer a paddle at 2 p.m. and at 4 p.m with Sunday at 2 p.m.

The cyclists made generous donations to Sound Rivers, who provided the kayaks and equipment, to help Sound River's mission of encouraging clean swimmable and fishable water. The sunny days were helpful, but the winds made it a little challenging. Friday you may have seen us around the harbor, but on Saturday and Sunday we used the more sheltered waters of Camp Creek.

We were able to talk with the out of town cyclists about the advantages of paddling our 300 miles of trails in Pamlico County and had several cyclists bring their own kayaks. On the water we talked about our local history and showed evidence of our lumber mill and railroad bridge in Camp Creek. There were no mishaps and everyone left with a great experience and good memories. Many cyclists said they were looking forward to visiting us again soon and many would bring their kayaks. See you up the creek - WITH a paddle.

Fireworks News: The Croaker Committee has been working with the Town Manager, Pamlico Emergency Services, Pamlico County Sheriff's Office, East Coast Pyrotechnics, Inc., U.S. Coast Guard and the NC Department of Transportation to solve the dilemma we have each year for the firework display. Our fireworks celebration is a tradition in our little town that draws visitors from all over to view the fabulous display. This year should prove to be the best ever as we have secured permission to launch them from atop the bridge. We are announcing this exciting news now so that all patrons and residents will have ample opportunity to find a location to view the show. With the bridge being the new launch location there will have to be changes to the bridge closure which will be a slight inconvenience for those persons that normally travel the bridge and/or watch from the bridge. Details are currently being worked out and will be available shortly.

Stay tuned through your local media. Please donate to the Fireworks show at Croakerfestival.com "Sponsor a Sparkle" you may pay through Paypal or by check made payable to Croakerfestival, Inc. mailed to P.O.Box 1067. To be in the Program guide as a patron payment must be received by June 1st.

ORCA Receives Grant For Quick Response Vehicle

The Oriental Regional County Ambulance fund (ORCA), formerly known as the Dottie Gray Ambulance Fund, requested a grant of $40,000.00 from the North Carolina Community Foundation at the beginning of the year. The grant was awarded to Southeast Pamlico VFD (Station 19) specifically for the purchase of a new medical Quick Response Vehicle. The directors of ORCA are pleased to announce that the process has been completed and Station 19 has purchased and outfitted a new 2017 Ford Explorer with this grant! Although this is not a transport vehicle, it will carry all the equipment an EMT-Basic is permitted and trained to use per the North Carolina State Office of EMS. This equipment includes, but is not limited to, oxygen, airway equipment, basic medications, an AED, a LifePak 12 cardiac monitor (capable of defibrillation and 12-lead EKG acquisition), trauma supplies etc. New and prior EMT's of Station 19 will utilize this vehicle to respond to emergencies, initiate patient care, and assist the rescue crew upon their arrival. This QRV will be a tremendous asset to the southeast portion of Pamlico County for many years to come!

Last December ORCA started a fundraiser with the goal of replacing this grant money. The North Carolina Community Foundation will be much more likely to award ORCA additional grants in the future to support emergency medical services in the southeast region of Pamlico County if the funds are replenished. There has been great progress towards our goal of $40,000, but we are still working to get there and we will with your continued support!

The directors of ORCA would like to graciously thank everyone who has already donated to the endowment fund, which is managed by the North Carolina Community Foundation. This was a special grant request due to the need of a new QRV and was awarded with the understanding that a significant effort would be made to replace those funds.

For those who would like to make a donation please make your check payable: Dottie Gray Ambulance, North Carolina Community Foundation, 3737 Glenwood Ave., Suite 460, Raleigh, NC 27612.

Again, we thank everyone for their donations and support!

Sincerely, The Directors of ORCA, President Sally Belangia, Secretary Diane Miller, Ian Davis, Papi Khouri, Jim Gray and Bruce Hartman

Financial Focus Financial Gifts – And Tips – For New Graduates

Dan M. Roberts, IV

Financial Advisor

It's Graduation Season again. If your child is graduating from high school or college, you have reason to celebrate. But what should you give to your newly minted diploma holder? You might want to consider offering a combination of financial gifts and tips, which, taken together, could set your graduate on a path toward a successful, independent life.

What sort of gifts and tips should you consider? Here are a few ideas:

• Give a few shares of stock. Everyone should understand the financial markets and how they work. One great way to encourage this interest is to give your child a few shares of stock. Young people enjoy owning a piece of a company that makes the products and services they like – and the very act of ownership can inspire them to learn more about investing and to ask questions: What causes the stock price to go up or down? How long should I hold this stock? Should I own several stocks like this one, or is it better to branch out to find new opportunities? Over time, in learning the answers to these and other questions, your child can become familiar with investing and how to make the best choices.

• Encourage your graduate to open an IRA. Your child can open an IRA as long as he or she has some earned income. You might want to suggest that your child consider a Roth IRA, which, at the child's age and income level, may be a good choice. With a Roth IRA, children can access their contributions at any time, tax- and penalty-free. They can't touch the earnings without incurring both taxes and penalties, however, until they reach 59½. But you will want to encourage them to keep the money in their IRA intact, giving it the chance to grow.

• Provide some financial education. Unfortunately, most young people don't really receive any kind of formal financial education. Of course, you can try to provide some of this knowledge to your own children, but, as you know, advice from Mom and Dad sometimes gets ignored. However, you might get better results if you arrange for your recent graduate to meet with a financial professional. As mentioned above, owning stocks, and following their progress, can teach your children a great deal about investing, but a financial professional can paint the "big picture" and explain how all aspects of money management – such as borrowing, budgeting, saving and investing –fit together to help individuals stay in control of their finances and make progress toward their important financial goals, such as buying a house and retiring in comfort. Recent graduates, whether leaving high school or college, are at "turning points" in their lives and can benefit greatly from understanding the importance of developing good, lifelong financial habits.

Most of us can think of several money-related mistakes we've made over the course of many years. And your children will make some errors, too. But by providing them with some appropriate financial gifts and valuable advice upon their graduation, they may well be better prepared to keep those mistakes to a minimum – while maximizing their ability to make good decisions.

You Decide: What Determines County Jobless Rates?

By Dr. Mike Walden

North Carolina Cooperative Extension The unemployment rate is one of the most closely tracked of economic statistics. There are two reasons for this. First, unemployment rates for the nation, state and local areas (counties, metropolitan regions) are released each month and with a rather short lag – so the information is reasonably up-to-date.

Dr. Mike Walden, N.C. Cooperative Extension

Second, an unemployment rate, unlike many economic measures, is relatively easy to understand. It's the percentage of the adult workforce actively looking for a job. In any given month in North Carolina the unemployment rate varies by a wide margin among our 100 counties. For example, in February of this year, the jobless rate ranged from a low of 4.1 percent in Alexander and Orange Counties to a high of 15.3 percent in Hyde County.

What's behind this big difference? At the top of the list is education. Our economy has significantly changed in recent decades. My late father was able to have a successful career and raise a family from the late 1940s to the early 1980s without even a high school degree. His experience is increasingly hard to replicate today.

This is because the nature of work has changed. Jobs requiring physical strength (like my father did) are now being done by machines and technology. More and more human work today requires cognitive skills learned in school, which often means the worker needs a college degree. Even if the job doesn't match the individual's college major, often employers interpret a person with any college degree to have the ability to learn and be productive.

The percentage of adults (age 25 and over) with college degrees varies widely among the state's counties, from a low of 8 percent to a high of 56 percent.

Employers not only prefer workers who are trained in needed skills, but they also want workers who won't cost them with higher health care expenditures or greater absenteeism. Two potential measures of these issues – obesity levels and serious alcohol and drug usage – vary significantly across the state's counties.

Of course, job growth is logically tied to population growth. The more people living in a county, the greater the need for jobs to provide the products and services used by those folks. While several North Carolina counties have had population growth since 2010 approaching 10 percent, over one-third of the state's counties have actually lost population in recent years.

Last, the economic prospects of industries are different. At any time, some industries may be growing and adding jobs while others are declining and cutting jobs. Therefore, in analyzing the differences in unemployment rates among counties, it is important to recognize the differences in the industrial makeup of the counties.

To disentangle the effects of these various factors on county unemployment rates, I performed statistical tests of the impacts of measures of the factors on recent North Carolina county jobless rates. For educational attainment, I used the percentage of adults with a bachelor's degree or higher. County obesity levels and the percentage of the county population being treated in alcohol and drug centers were used to capture personal characteristics that might deter business hiring. Population growth was measured since 2010. The percentage of total county business earnings in key economic sectors controlled for differences in the industrial mix of the counties.

The statistical results were exactly as predicted. On average, every additional percentage point in the adult population with a bachelor's degree or more is associated with a 0.05 percentage point lower unemployment rate. Every additional percentage point in county adults classified as obese is related to a 0.1 percentage point higher jobless rate. Every additional percentage point in county individuals being cared for at alcohol and drug treatment centers correlates with an amazing 5 percentage point higher county unemployment rate!

Counties with faster population growth were also found to have lower jobless rates. Specifically, a one percentage point higher population growth rate during the last five years relates to a 0.07 percentage point lower county unemployment rate.

Regarding economic structure, counties with a higher concentration of manufacturing activity were found to have lower jobless rates. This is probably because manufacturing has enjoyed a strong rebound since the end of the Great Recession.

So what are the conclusions from this analysis of county unemployment rates? First, today's job market values education. One of the challenges for high-unemployment counties is losing their best and brightest to the state's big cities.

Second, the results are consistent with businesses preferring a fitter and "cleaner" workforce. Anything job-challenged counties can do to reduce obesity and addictions among their workforce can help in job recruitment.

Last, population growth matters. Over one-third of our state's counties are losing population. It's difficult to increase jobs and lower unemployment in this situation.

Can we reduce the spread between our county jobless rates? Or, are such differences inevitable and a "fact of economic life" we have to live with? You decide.

Support To 'Raise The Age' Crosses Ideological, Partisan Lines

By Kari Travis, Carolina Journal

RALEIGH — North Carolina is now the nation's only state charging 16- and 17-year-old delinquents as adults and needs to catch up with the rest of the country, says N.C. Supreme Court Chief Justice Mark Martin.

Supporters of a bill that would "Raise the Age" for low-level juvenile offenders call North Carolina's law a disgrace, and spoke about it Monday at a press conference at the legislative complex.

New York raised its juvenile age limit to 18 years old last month.

Teenagers in the state's criminal justice system shouldn't be forced into adult prisons or carry permanent records for petty crimes, Martin said.

Raising the age would decrease youth recidivism and would save the state money over the long-haul.

Under House Bill 280, the Juvenile Justice Reinvestment Act, teens up to the age of 18 who are charged with nonviolent crimes would qualify as juveniles.

Passing the law should is a no-brainer for legislators, Martin said. When a 16-year-old commits a minor theft and is charged as an adult, that charge leaves an ugly mark on the kid's record, he said. "In North Carolina [a criminal record] is placed on the internet, and so it becomes part of [any] background investigation. Normally, these cases are handled very quickly, so the child and parents can think it's well behind them, only to learn five or six years later that it had a very serious effect on [the child's] ability to participate in the global marketplace." H.B. 280 has garnered support from across the political spectrum. Democratic Gov. Roy Cooper and House Rules Committee Chairman David Lewis, R-Harnett, back the bill. So do civil liberties groups including the ACLU and law-enforcement organizations like the North Carolina Sheriffs Association and the North Carolina Association of Chiefs of Police.

Law enforcers want to make it easier for juveniles to move past mistakes without lasting consequences, said Wake County Sheriff Donnie Harrison. Youth who serve time in adult prisons often are influenced to pursue a life of crime after their release, he said. "I think this initiative will stop some of that. We need to get behind this initiative. Everybody needs to get behind it. We need to talk about it, [because] it's well thought out."

These reforms require money, and a good deal of it, Harrison told lawmakers, pointing out that the system would need more counselors and lawyers to help rehabilitate troubled kids.

Financial concerns have yet to be addressed, but a fiscal note on H.B. 280 is in the works, said Tom Murry, director of the North Carolina Administrative Office of the Courts.

After a drop in juvenile crime in 2008, the state has reduced its juvenile justice budget by $40 million on a recurring basis.

The state is likely to garner greater long-term financial savings by protecting kids from criminal influences in the adult system, William Lassiter, North Carolina's deputy commissioner of juvenile justice, told Carolina Journal in March.

Bipartisan Victims' Rights Legislation Passes State House

Raleigh – Victims' rights legislation known as Marsy's Law, passed the state House today with a bipartisan 94-21 final vote. The legislation seeks to amend the state constitution to provide an equal level of constitutional protections to North Carolina crime victims that are already given to the accused and convicted. House Bill 551, sponsored by Reps.

Nelson Dollar, Rena Turner, Destin Hall and Beverly Earle had 77 of sponsors and cosponsors, enough to reach the $\frac{3}{5}$ needed in the House to qualify for a statewide vote to amend the constitution to strengthen victims' rights.

The legislation now moves to the state Senate where it is sponsored by Senators Tamara Barringer, Brent Jackson and Warren Daniel.

More than eight in ten North Carolinians from across the political spectrum support amending the constitution to give victims stronger rights according to a recent survey of North Carolina voters. Nearly nine out of ten voters believe that crime victims should be guaranteed notification of a criminal's bail, parole, release or escape and that victims, if they choose, have the constitutional right to speak at the bail or sentencing hearing.

Marsy's Law for NC kicked off a campaign earlier in April during National Crime Victims' Week to begin the two-step process to amend the state constitution: the first step requires a bill passed by 3/5 of both chambers of the state Legislature to then send it to a statewide vote the following year.

The victims' rights legislation has North Carolina-specific language that will focus on felonies and violent misdemeanors.

It will guarantee that victims receive certain rights in a number of important ways including:

• informing victims and their families about their rights and the services available to them,

• giving them the right to receive notification of proceedings and major developments in a criminal case,

• protecting their safety by notifying them in a timely manner regarding changes to the offender's custodial status,

• allowing victims and their families to exercise their right to be present - and heard - at court proceedings,

• providing input to the prosecutor before a plea agreement is finalized; and

• establishing the right to restitution from the convicted. Watch the Marsy's Law NC launch video: https://youtu. be/7ecYBV2MIWk

About Marsy's Law NC: Marsy's Law for North Carolina seeks to amend the state constitution to provide an equal level of constitutional protection to victims of crime that is already afforded to the accused and convicted. Marsy's Law is supported across the political spectrum to ensure that victims have the same "co-equal" rights as the accused and convicted - nothing more; nothing less.

While there are some victims' rights protections currently in North Carolina's constitution, they are not applied the same way from county to county and there is not currently broad, statewide, enforceable language equally outlined across the state. The Marsy's Law for NC campaign aims to give victims of crime a voice they do not have by law in the criminal justice process, and the safety and peace-of-mind to know their assailant has not been released without their knowledge.

Since California's passage of the Victims' Bill of Rights Act of 2008, Marsy's Law legislation has also succeeded in Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Illinois.

This past week was Teacher Appreciation Week; I pray you did something nice for our local teachers. They do an outstanding and awesome, though sometimes thankless job. I have been blessed to adopt a class at Pamlico County Primary School this year and I try to visit with them at least once each month. I especially enjoyed being able to read with each child on my most recent visit. It was a blessing to be able to help since the class teacher assistant was out on medical leave. There was a birthday party for Dylan Ulysses Smith on Saturday

May 6, even though his birthdate was actually on May 5. May 6 was the day for the town wide yard sale in Oriental. I understand from a reliable source that it must have been a success because the businesses were carrying on business as usual, while outside people were selling items in their parking lots.

Thursday through Sunday last week, the Pamlico Emmaus community held Walk PE #76 at Camp Caroline. Pamlico resident Elizabeth Cuthrell was one of the pilgrims on the walk. Carnell Barrow from West Branch Missionary Baptist Church in Bayboro, Kelly Roberts from Reelsboro UMC, and Judy Robinson from Arapahoe UMC were also pilgrims on this walk. Flo Daniels from Grantsboro was on the conference room team for this walk. We pray everyone at this spiri-

Sunday May 7, Roy and I celebrated our anniversary with cards, letters, text messages, gifts and well wishes and singing by the congregation of Vandemere UMC. We also shared lunch at Charlie's Restaurant with quite a few folk from Pamlico. It was a very special day for us because our son, Kevin and his wife are in flight to America for a few months furlough from the mission field in Kenya.

On Saturday, May 13, there will be a Pastor's Appreciation Picnic at Camp Don Lee sponsored by the Pamlico County Camp of Gideon's International.

On Sunday, May 14, I hope you all celebrate Mother's Day. If your mother is not with you, do something special for some other mother you know.

Celebrating birthdays in May are Debbie Whorton (5/12), Dale Alvin Belvin (5/14), Greg Jones (5/16), Vance Henries (5/18), Zachary Rodgers and Shannon Lee Wing (5/20), Dennis Stokes (5/25), and Suzie Rodgers (5/30). Anniversaries in May include Larry and Sharon Gibbs (5/15) and Timothy and Veronica Jones (5/30).

this morning and her treatment is much better than we had anticipated. Since her lung problem came from melanoma that she had some years ago she will have the same successful treatments that Nick had for his melanoma. Lynn Speas is still dealing with her eye problem, but it is getting better after her surgery last week. Suzy and Kevin rode their bikes around Oriental for the yard sales last Saturday. Saw Brad Hodges at church yesterday and he told me he has been diagnosed with Parkinsons. This Saturday at 3:00p.m. the Memorial for Fran Deaton will be held in Lu Mac Park. This was a very giving lady who did a lot of volunteer work for this county. The Chorale is planning to sing at the service. Thought for the week-- Remember that America is still the greatest country and how blessed we are to live here.

Donors Needed During Trauma Awareness Month

RAPIDPASS

During Trauma Awareness Month in May, the American Red Cross encourages eligible donors to give blood for trauma patients and others with serious medical needs. Each year traumas account for 41 million emergency departments visits and 2.3 million hospital admissions across the nation, according to the National Trauma Institute. A person involved in a car accident may need as many as 100 units of blood. The Red Cross must collect nearly 14,000 blood donations every day for patients in need. Those who come to donate blood with the Red Cross by May 14th will have a chance to win one of three $1,000 gift card shopping sprees. Blood donations often decline when regular donors are vacationing and schools are out of session. Donors are asked to commit to give in the weeks leading up to and during the summer to help alleviate this seasonal decline. Use can save time by using RapidPass to complete your predonation reading and health history online before you come to your appointment by going to www.redcrossblood.org/RapidPass. There will be a blood drive at the Grantsboro Town Hall on Highway 55 on May 26 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. For additional blood drives contact the Red Cross at (252)341-1325.

Deaths

Mitchell "Mitch" Wayne Nipper, 74, of Grantsboro went home to be with the Lord on Sunday, April 30, 2017. He was a former member of West Vanceboro Church of God and attended Soldier Ministries and Word Fellowship when his health would allow. Mitchell was a native of Florida but lived most of his life in Vanceboro before moving to Grantsboro eight years ago. He worked most of his life as an auto parts salesman having worked at Paul Auto, Buckman Auto and Norfolk Paint Co. He is survived by his wife of nearly 55 years, Barbara Owens Nipper; daughter, Debra N. Woodall; son, Mitchell B. Nipper; brother, Kenneth T. Nipper; sister, Shirley Nipper Tripp; seven grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren. His service was held 2:00 p.m., Friday, May 5th at West Vanceboro Church of God with the Rev. Robert Worthington and Rev. Owen Lupton officiating. Graveside services will be held privately. The family received friends and relatives from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday at Bryant Funeral Home.

Flowers are appreciated or memorial contributions may be made to Bryant Funeral Home, PO Box 99, Alliance, NC 28509.

Teresa Muse Cooney, 63, of Bayboro, died May 2, 2017 at her home. One of three children born to Carlton and Shirley Muse, she is preceded in death by her mother and brother, Carlton Jr. Growing up, Teresa lived in Key West, Florida and in Bayboro, North Carolina. She attended UNC-CH where she met her husband, John, and earned a BA in Sociology/Psychology. Teresa later attended ECU where she studied Counselor Education and received a MS in School Counseling. Teresa and John enjoyed a lifelong adventure pursuing Carolina Bliss. She was an avid Tar Heel fan and enjoyed following local athletics. Through her work as a Guidance Counselor in the public school system, she fulfilled her dream of helping others. She was highly regarded and respected by her coworkers and the students she served in several high schools in both Pamlico and Craven counties. Heartwarming are the testimonials from students, or her kids as she called them, who expressed invaluable help in providing life lessons and support for them through their journey in high school and beyond. Teresa is fondly remembered for her love of her dogs, her humor and wit, and love for reading. She loved her family and considered her role as "mom" her most important and pleasurable one. She is survived by her father, Carlton Muse, husband, John, sons, John III and Bryant, grandson, Miles, sister, Sue, sister-in-law, Debbie McCotter and nieces Carly and Chelsey. Funeral arrangements are through Bryant Funeral Home. A celebration of life service was held at Bayboro United Methodist Church on May 8th at 2pm. The family received friends at the Bayboro United Methodist Church on Sunday May 7th from 5-6:30pm. In lieu of flowers, consider a donation to a scholarship fund or educational charity of your choice.

Pine Knoll Shores 10th Annual Kayak For The Warriors

Registration is now open for the 10th Annual Kayak for the Warriors hosted by the Town of Pine Knoll Shores. The three-day event features a 5K/1K run/walk, Warrior reception with live and silent auctions, a 3.2-mile kayak and paddle board race, and lunch benefiting Hope For The Warriors.

Celebrating more than a decade of service, Hope For The Warriors, founded aboard Camp Lejeune, is a national nonprofit that assists veterans, service members and military families with a variety of programs including clinical health and wellness, sports and recreation, community and military relations and transition services.

'We are excited to be celebrating the 10th Anniversary of the Kayak for the Warriors events," said event coordinator, Jean McDanal. "What began with seven stalwart kayakers paddling through the canals of Pine Knoll Shores has now grown into a kayak/ paddle board event with 150 paddlers on average."

On Saturday, May 27 the festivities kick-off at 8 a.m. with the 5K Beach Run and 1K Fun Run and Walk beginning at the Inn at Pine Knoll Shores (formerly The Clamdigger). Registration for the 5K is $25, which includes a t-shirt, and $15 for the 1K.

Then on Thursday, June 1, the Crystal Coast community can come together at the Pine Knoll Shores Aquarium for the annual Warrior reception with silent and live auction beginning at 6 p.m. Tickets are $10, and includes heavy appetizers and access to the aquarium's exhibits.

On Saturday, June 3, the signature kayak and paddle board race begins at 10 a.m. The 3.2-mile race starts at Garner Park and moves through the Pine Knoll Shores canals. Registration is $50 and includes a t-shirt and lunch. Once again, the WARRIOR RACE, a race with in a race, will be a part of this event. Participants are encouraged to raise funds for Hope For The Warriors, allowing fundraisers to deduct one second from their raw time for each dollar raised. A WARRIOR RACE winner will be crowned along with the kayaker and paddle boarder with the fastest times.

For those preferring to stay on land while supporting local veterans, military members and families, lunch is available for $10 per person or $15 per family.

"Hope For The Warriors was founded in Eastern North Carolina, so we're extremely grateful for the continued support of the community where we started." said Robin Kelleher, co-founder and president of Hope For The Warriors. "Thanks to the Town of Pine Knoll Shores and its amazing residents, the funds raised from the 10th Annual Kayak for the Warriors will positively impact veterans, service members and families based in North Carolina and across the county."

Since 2008, Kayak for the Warriors has raised more than $350,000 benefiting Hope For The Warriors and its programs.

Preregistration is encouraged for any/all events and can be completed at http://support.hopeforthewarriors.org/site/TR?fr_ id=1252&pg=entry#.WN6ZfxjMw1g or k4tw.org. On-site registration is also available. To learn more about Kayak for the Warriors visit k4tw.org. For more information on Hope For The Warriors, visit hopeforthewarriors.org, Facebook or Twitter.

ing large bluefish. The N.C. Division of Marine Fisheries' Saltwater Fishing

Tournament, known commonly as the Citation Program, will add a bluefish release category beginning May 15. Anglers can receive a citation (certificate) for the release of a bluefish that measures 34 inches or longer.

Currently, citations are given only to anglers who catch and keep a bluefish that weighs at least 15 pounds.

The new release category brings the total number of release species in the program to 20. The release category is meant to encourage anglers to practice lar sport fish.

The tournament runs from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31 each year and is open to any angler, except those who captain or work on a for-hire vessel or those who sell their fish.

To qualify for a citation, the fish must be caught on hook and line, landed without the use of electric or hydraulic equipment and meet the program size requirements. Landed fish must be weighed at an official weigh station and then recorded on an official application form. For released fish, the angler or mate must touch the fish or the leader, measure the fish and release it, then the angler and a witness must fill out and sign an application at an official weigh station.

Fred A. Anderson Elementary School

The AIG students at FAA have been very busy preparing for their Revolutionary War Wax Museum presentations. They presented on an image that captured the events that occurred during The American Revolution and invited parents, students, and teachers to come listen to their speeches.

Amare Jarvis, 4th grader at Fred Anderson, competed at the Downeast Regional Spelling Bee and represented Pamlico County very well. We are so proud of all of the hard work that he put in.

Fred Anderson and the Grantsboro Food Lion partnered again to make a night full of memories and math. Each year, the Grantsboro Food Lion and Fred Anderson host a night where families can come in and complete a scavenger hunt to practice math skills while having lots of fun. Snacks, door prizes, and a poster contest were held to add to the fun. Our poster contest winners were: Kaitlyn Toler, Mya Hill, and Samyiah Maiden. Congratulations!

The fourth graders had a blast at Camp Don Lee on their field trip. The students got a hands-on look at a pond and river ecosystem as well as studying traditions from Native Americans through games.

The Elementary Battle of the Books team went to Kinston to compete at the Regional Battle of the Books competition. The students were questioned on 18 books that they had read in great detail through the year.

The third graders had a "book tasting" event which allowed them to sit and "sample" books from different genres and authors that they haven't read before. This encourages children to try to read new things and expand their reading repertoire.

Jim Howard came to visit our fifth graders to discuss meteorology during their weather unit. Mr. Howard gave students the opportunity to become a meteorologist and practice their speaking skills. He gave an in depth look at what his job entails as well as the schooling to become a meteorologist. The kids always have a great time when he comes to visit. Thank you, Mr. Howard!

Mrs. Rogers, Outreach Education Coordinator for the Soybean Association, came to visit the third graders. She let them sample soybeans and products that are made with soybeans. The students learned a lot of great information and also tried some tasty treats.

Bees: Critical for the American food supply HeartWorks provides hands-on learning to students HeartWorks, of Pamlico County After School & Summer Program, provides students Ricky Galvin-Veltz, Hollie Scott, and Tegan Sanders an up-close and personal learning experience afforded to only a very small percentage of students all over the world.

Christine Saxon, using a time-worn phrase, is the chief cook and bottle washer for HeartWorks. She explained, "At HeartWorks I wear a few hats. I am the Bookkeeper, Cook, Kitchen Tech and Beekeeper. I own a farm in Alliance, where I grow organic produce, keep about 70 chickens, and have six beehives. I'm a NC State certified beekeeper."

Bees took up residence in the hive that had been erected in a patch of clover on the grounds of HeartWorks on April 4th. On Tuesday, May 2, Saxton welcomed a Pamlico News correspondent to the HeartWorks campus in Bayboro for the first hive check of the season.

Once Saxton and the students had dressed in proper protective clothing in the HeartWorks kitchen, the troupe headed for the hive. Without benefit of such gear, the visiting corespondent was advised to remain very calm and not to ever flap the arms about to swat bees away.

Saxton said, "First, we are looking for the brood that the queen laid." While the hive was being carefully opened from the top, Ricky Galvin-Veltz pumped the bellows on the smoke maker.

Preparing for hive check Christine Saxton fires up the smoker.

from boxes and bags, to know where their food really comes from." She pointed to nearby raised beds for vegetables and described the importance of bees to our food system. She added, "Pollinators help produce 1/3 of all the food we eat, even coffee and chocolate. And I can't imagine life without either!"

She also noted, "It is extremely important to pass beekeeping to future generations. The use of pesticides and chemicals, a shrinking natural environment for them, and mono-culture farming, to name a few, are putting bees in danger of extinction. The more backyard beekeepers there are, the better for the bees."

1331 McCarthy Blvd. New Bern, NC • 252-637-2784 M–F 10am – 6pm | SAT 10am – 5pm www.hearnesjewelrv.com

Saxton told the group, "Remember, the smoke can give them the impression that a forest fire is near, which could signal them to stop flying around and settle down." Then she exclaimed, "There's the brood the queen laid. She's a good queen; she's been working. It looks wonderful."

For the novice, the first question is a query about honey. "Yes they are making it, but it will be June before it will be time to harvest. They are also making bee bread to feed the newborn bees."

Saxton and the students found a crowded hive and determined that it needed an expansion. They added a second story to the hive. "We are also going to add a beetle trap to protect the bees from an invasion of hive beetles."

Saxton related the significance of a Heartworks bee hive. "Its important for the kids, many who eat Tegan Sanders suits up.

"Hopefully our bees will produce enough honey for themselves for the winter, and enough for us to extract some and sell it. The money earned from the honey will allow us to purchase bee equipment, or even start another hive. Right now we need a $75 donation to complete the bee suit Ricky was wearing yesterday yes, I'm putting in a shameless fundraising plug."

Saxon encourages all interested in keeping bees to join the Craven-Pamlico Beekeepers Association, which offers a weekend "Bee School" every September. She stressed the need to learn before installing a hive!

For those who want to support creative, handson learning for generations to come, they can support HeartWorks by donating and volunteering. Planning is now underway for this year's edition of HarborFest for HeartWorks, the major annual fundraising drive for HeartWorks held in the fall.

To provide necessary funds for more equipment and protective gear for beekeeping in addition to other materials that give students handson learning experiences in a variety of projects, call now to help expand learning opportunities for deserving children. The Heartworks number is, 252-745 -9703.

Spend $75 on Inis product & receive a free cosmetic bag or marketing bag! Shoes & Clothing for Men & Women • Gifts • Jewelry • Wine & more Wine Tasting - May 13th • 3 & 4 pm - Oriental

Historic Beaufort Celebrates 57th Annual Old Homes Tour & Antiques Show

Experience southern hospitality at its finest during the 57th Annual Old Homes and Gardens Tour in Beaufort, NC. This year's event will be held June 23-24, and features 12 homes, 10 gardens and 9 artists.

Beaufort's quaint historic district, boasting more than 200 homes in the National Registered Historic District that are over a century old, and several private residences that are more than 200 years old, has brought the town well-deserved attention as a tourist destination. Every year this picturesque town invites visitors and locals alike to breathe in the fragrant salty air, stroll leisurely down the tree-lined streets, and discover an array of historic homes and buildings as part of the Old Homes & Antiques Show Weekend the last weekend in June. This longtime tradition is the perfect way to see how the town has preserved its past while celebrating its present.

This weekend found its start 57 years ago when the Beaufort Historical Association hosted a station wagon antique show in conjunction with the Beaufort Women's Club Old Homes Tour. The weekend was met with some skepticism at first, but quickly turned into one of the most popular weekends in town and today is consistently voted one of the Top 20 Events for the month of June by the Southeast Tourism Society.

This year the Old Homes & Gardens Tour will feature 12 private homes from the historic to the newly-constructed, 10 gorgeous gardens and 9 artists' studios. The restored buildings on the Beaufort Historic Site will be open both days with docents in period dress. Since the weekend has grown to encompass all sorts of events, be sure to check out the Antique Car Show on June 24, an opening concert by the Purvis Chapel Choir on June 22, and narrated tours of the Beaufort Historic District aboard a vintage English double-decker bus.

Visitors on the tour will be treated to a wide variety of décor from early Beaufort historic houses furnished with period pieces to early historic houses completely remodeled with bright coastal colors. This year three new homes are featured because the tour reflects Beaufort's many years of history, not just the past. We know you'll enjoy the wide variety of homes which include the home of Frieda Menzer & Rob McArthur, c. 1790 Norcum House; home of Carrie & Scott Nelson, c. 1820 Methodist Parsonage; home of Marianna Hollinshed, c. 1848 Buckman House; home of Becky & Tom Oxholm; home of Elizabeth & Don Gould, c.1850 Hackburn-Fulford House; home of Deborah & Charles Llewellyn, c. 1778 Rumley House; home of Nancy Fuqua, c.1772 Gibble House; home of Fran & Dan Krautheim' c1777 Caleb Bell House; home of Betty & Gilles Cloutier, c. 1709 Hammock House; home of Ann & Worth Harris; home of Eva & Tom Higgins; and last but certainly not least the c.1940 Fishhouse owned by Faye Styron.

Complementing the homes are the beautiful gardens owned by Priscilla Murphy, Anne & Gerry Currier, Stacy Meislohn of Calypso Cottage, Gail Barnes, Jonathan Haas & Kim Bell of The Inn on Turner, Ron Hux, Christine & Stan Lamb of The Pecan Tree Inn, Donna Babington of The Ann Street Inn, Susan & Joe Johnson, and Brenda & Bill Oliffe.

Festivities begin with the Annual Kickoff Party featuring the 2nd Annual Bartender's Challenge Competition held on the grounds of the Beaufort Historic Site on Saturday, June 3 from 5:30-7:30 pm. Held in conjunction with featured artist Stephen Moore's art show opening, guests will be treated to great local food as well as Moore's coastal series of paintings. This party also serves as a big thank you to the home and garden owners who work so hard to get their properties > ready for the wonderful tour that showcases the best of Beaufort.

The tour weekend will commence with a concert by the Purvis Chapel Choir on Thursday, June 22 at 7 pm at Purvis Chapel AME Zion Church at 215 Craven St. in Beaufort. The historic church is in the National Heritage Registry and believed to be the oldest in the county that's still in use. This event will pay tribute to this year's Honorary Chairs, Shirley and David Pleace, as well as the hundreds of volunteers who help make the busy weekend so successful. The concert is free and open to the public with a reception following in the Parish Hall.

Beginning its 57th year, the Antique Show features many unique dealers from all over the east coast. This year's show will feature Antique Show favorites who return year after year like Michael Weinstein, who offers vintage jewelry and watches, as well as Ricky Chandler with his eclectic mix of treasures. There is a selection of new vendors this year including "When Radio Was King" who offers a collection of restored vintage radios, some offer blue tooth capabilities. The Antique Show is also partnering with Bogue RV to feature tiny houses, the park model. These three tiny houses will be filled with antique decor mixed with modern touches from local designers; McQueen's Interiors, Beaufort Home and Seaclassics Interiors. The houses will be open for viewing during the Antique Show.

Since 1960, this annual weekend has not only been the largest fundraiser for the Beaufort Historical Association but has also been a time of community involvement and pride where Beaufort residents open the doors of their splendid homes to help and support the BHA's preservation efforts and educational programs.

This annual event gives visitors the chance to find out more about the wonderful history of Beaufort with most wanting to return for more. Tickets for the Old Homes & Gardens Tour are $18 in advance and $20 at the door, and the Antiques Show and Sale tickets are $8 and good for all three days. Combination tickets for both the Old Homes & Gardens Tour and Antique Show & Sale are available for $24 in advance and $25 the days of the events. Tickets for the Kick-Off Party are $30 and combination tickets for all three events are $45. For more information on any of these events, please contact the Beaufort Historical Association at (252) 728-5225, stop by the Beaufort Historical Association Visitor's Center at 130 Turner Street, or visit www.beauforthistoricsite.org.

Bayboro Pharmacy Recognized For Diabetes Self-Management Program

Bayboro Pharmacy was recently named an accredited diabetes education program by the American Association of Diabetes Educators (AADE), a National Accredited Organization (NAO), certified by the Centers for Medicare &

Medicaid Services (CMS). This will allow the people with Diabetes in and around Pamlico County and southern Beaufort County increased access to high quality diabetes education services.

Diabetes education is a collaborative process through which people with or at risk for diabetes gain the knowledge and skills needed to modify behavior and successfully self-manage the disease and its related conditions. The program is comprehensive and taught by diabetes educators who have extensive training.

Bayboro Pharmacy, located at 702 Main Street Bayboro NC 28515, will be offering diabetes education classes in our Healthy Living Center on various dates throughout the year (call for scheduling).

"AADE's accreditation assures that an accredited program meets the National Standards for Diabetes Self-Management Education and Support. Programs who meet this criteria are considered high quality and have been shown to improve the health status of the individuals who embrace the education and help to modify sometimes unhealthy behaviors, or simply provide the education that the person with diabetes has not previously received" said Leslie E. Kolb, RN, BSN, MBA, Accreditation Director for the Diabetes Education Accreditation Program. "Bayboro Pharmacy is exactly the type

- Chapel Hill. In the summer of 1999, she volunteered as a counselor at Camp Needles in the Pines, located in Eastern North Carolina. This is a one week residential camp for children with type 1 diabetes ages 8 to 14 years, hosted by East Carolina University Brody School of Medicine Department of Pediatrics. Lori has committed to helping diabetic patients better understand and control their disease through education, lifestyle changes and effective medication management. She has taught free "Sweet Spot" diabetes classes for over 3 years. Since earning the AADE accreditation, she has continued the free "Sweet Spot" classes and added an Intensive Diabetes Self-Management Education program that is billable to Medicare (includes a copay, as determined by the patient's Medicare plan). Lori occasionally presents diabetes related topics to local civic and community groups at no charge. Lori says, "Pamlico County is 1 of 644 counties in the US (1 of 30 counties in NC) identified by the CDC as being in the Diabetes Belt. I enjoy working with diabetic patients and it's exciting to see these patients gain control over their diabetes instead of feeling they are controlled by diabetes."

Trillium Recognizes Mental Health Month

Trillium Health Resources will recognize Mental Health

Month throughout May. Mental Health America (MHA), a nationwide nonprofit, promotes the initiative to help raise awareness about mental health illness and therefore reduce the stigma often associated with such diagnoses. Other organizations will participate in similar efforts such as The National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) and the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA).

The 2017 focus for MHA's Mental Health Month will be Risky Business. People may engage in potentially risky behaviors to manage, avoid, or cover up symptoms of a mental health problem. It is often hard to distinguish whether these behaviors are isolated instances or a cause for concern.

Firemen's Museum, according to Don Temple, president of First Capital. Muscle cars, race cars, classic Ford Thunderbirds, Chevrolet Corvettes and various other American and foreign marques will complete the field of entries.

And in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the first Nash vehicle to roll out of the Nash Motor Company plant in Kinosha, WI., in 1917, the show will also spotlight a 1959 Nash Metropolitan and a 1951 Nash Country Club, both restored to their original condition.

ECU Graduate Got Her Start At PCC

bachelor's degree in psychology

By Sandy Wall, Pamlico Community College

Kara Ireland's higher education journey began at Pamlico Community College when she was in high school. It culminated - at least for now - when the motivated 22-year-old Arapahoe resident graduated from East Carolina University last week with her bachelor's degree in psychology.

"It's been a journey," Ireland said recently. "They say start strong and finish stronger. That's what I've tried to do."

Ireland got a head start on her bachelor's degree in 11th grade when she enrolled in college courses offered at PCC's Bayboro Center. After graduating from Pamlico County High School, she began attending Pamlico Community College full time, earning her associate's degree in only one year, thanks in large part to the free college credits she had already earned.

Ireland then transferred to ECU, commuting to Greenville for classes when she wasn't working in the office at Camp Seafarer in Pamlico County.

She excelled at ECU, and was able to complete her bachelor's degree for a fraction of the cost she would have encountered without PCC and the free college courses offered through the Career & College Promise program.

"It was one of the best routes to go," Ireland said with a smile before last week's commencement at ECU.

Students are eligible to take college courses at PCC - at no cost while they are in high school, thanks to the N.C. Career & College Promise program. The credits earned by passing the free college from South Front Street and ends at 2 p.m. with the presentation of awards at the intersection of Pollock and Middle streets. Awards will be presented to winners in various categories ranging from historic preservation of original features to daily drivers, and from sports cars to special interest vehicles.

Fred Wagner, co-chairman of the show said vehicles may be entered in the show in advance at a registration fee of $15 or before 10 a.m. the day of the event at a fee of $20. Registration forms are available on the internet at www.ncregionaaca/firstcapital.com, by emailing the27wags@ yahoo.com, or by calling 252-637-4503 or 252-633-6342. Any motor vehicle at least 25 years old may be entered in the show regardless of make, model or condition, and an owner does not have to be a member of a car club, Wagner noted.

In addition to the 26 spring shows sponsored since its founding in 1991, First Capital has hosted six AACA national meets, including Grand National Meets 2002 and 2010, which have attracted thousands of automotive enthusiasts from throughout the country to New Bern.

New Bern's First Capital is one of 14 AACA chapters in North Carolina. Membership in the club is open to individuals interested in the preservation, restoration and maintenance of automobiles and automotive history. Ownership of an antique automobile is not a membership requirement. The club meets at 7 p.m. the third Tuesday of each month at the Hibachi Grill, 3342 Martin Luther King Jr., Blvd., New Bern.

courses can help students get ahead.

"Offering high school students an opportunity to earn college credit at no charge is one of the best things we do at Pamlico Community College," said PCC President Dr. Jim Ross. "Students who pass these courses save themselves both time and money, but they don't sacrifice quality instruction."

Ireland said she would recommend high school students enroll in free college courses offered by PCC while they can. Ireland also said attending PCC for a year after graduating high school got her ready for the often-demanding life of a university student.

"It has prepared me, that's for sure," she said. "It made me want to go strive to go further."

Ireland said she got a lot of support and encouragement from PCC instructors and staffers while enrolled at the college. She singled out Michelle Willis, the college's vice president of instructional services, as someone who was especially helpful.

PCC counselor Cristy Lewis Warner, who was among those who helped Ireland make sure she had everything in place to transfer to ECU, said the college can help others reach their educational goals.

"Kara is a perfect example of what Pamlico Community College can do," Warner said. "We are not always someone's final answer, but we can be a partner in a student's pathways to success. We were there at Kara's side during her high school years through the Career & College Promise program, during her associate's degree and also during her transition to ECU."

Ireland said her educational journey is not yet complete. She will begin studying for the GRE soon, with plans to pursue a master's degree in psychology. Her career ambition is to help children.

"Kara was dedicated to her dream early on, and we were happy to assist her along the way," Warner said. "We could not be happier to see her graduate from East Carolina University."
