OBITUARIES

- Mark Anthony Yurko, age 49, of Arapahoe

Students Receive Rotary Student Of The Month Award

During the October meeting of the Pamlico County Board of Education, Pamlico County Middle School (PCMS) student, Jalyn Dunn, and Pamlico County High School (PCHS) student, Dylan Gunn, were recognized as the Oriental Rotary Students of the Month for their school. Each month, this recognition is bestowed upon students who exhibit scholastic achievement, leadership, honesty, community service, teamwork, and empathy, among other notable characteristics.

Jalyn resides with his mother, Holly Russell, in Oriental. He is a well-rounded student, very polite, and always strives to do his best on any task. His favorite subject is math. He is a member of the Junior Beta Club, MathCounts team, and plans to play baseball in the Spring. Jalyn enjoys boating and the beach. He is an avid reader and likes to travel. His most favorite P.E. activity is tumbling. Jalyn's future plans include studying at UCLA. His teachers are confident that he will succeed in all that he attempts.

Mr. Meadows had this to say about Dylan Gunn, "Dylan is one of the rare students that come along once in a lifetime. He has a heart of gold, is extremely intelligent, and is an exceptional leader. Dylan has a GPA over 4.0 and somehow manages to keep his academics in focus while also maintaining employment at Friday's Seafood and as Latitude Church's photographer and graphic designer. He is the editor of the PCHS Yearbook as well as a member of the Science Club and Future Business Leaders of America. In each and everything that Dylan is involved in, he excels and adds tremendous value with his talents, input, and leadership. I have been impressed with Dylan from the first day I met him and I am very blessed to have such an awesome young man at PCHS who has an incredibly bright future ahead."

Students are selected for the award based on the Rotary Four-Way Test, which has been used around the world since 1943. It states, "Of the things we think, say or do: 1) Is it the TRUTH?, 2) Is it FAIR to all concerned?, 3) Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?, and 4) Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?" To further commemorate this honor, the Rotary Club has placed a plaque in both schools which displays the name of each recipient of this prestigious award.

Rotary Distributes Dictionaries

The Rotary Club of Oriental recently conducted its annual distribution of Dictionaries to all third graders at both the Arapahoe Charter School and the Fred A. Anderson Elementary School. Dictionaries were provided to five classes at Anderson Elementary and two classes at Arapahoe Charter School. Participating Rotary Club members presented information about the Rotary Club and introduced students to their new dictionaries. The Rotary Club of Oriental provides scholarships to select high school graduates, who always admit that they still have their dictionaries from the third grade. Rotarians participating were Coordinator Tom Stone, Mary Stone, Jan Mosca, Bill Miles, Larry Gracie, and Branson Dunn. The photos are from the classes of Julie Milles at Arapahoe Charter School and Mrs. Rubin/Ms. Bell at Anderson Elementary in Bayboro.

Celebrate Civil War History Day At Oriental's History Museum

"Steamer Oriental" built by Jerome Parker in 2009

Back in 2009, Jerome Parker, recently deceased, built a scale model of the "Steamer Oriental" and donated it to the Museum. It sits in the front window complete with miniature soldiers and other figures. The Steamer, originally built for trade with Cuba, was part of the "Great Expedition" of Union ships during the Civil War. It ran aground in 1862 off the coast near Bodie Island, where its "boiler" stack can still be seen across the dunes from the Pea Island National Wildlife Refuge. If you have not seen the model yet stop in this weekend during the Museum's Fall Festival on Saturday, October 14. The Museum opens at 1 pm with Civil Worar artifacts and mementos. The permanent Fishing Exhibit has been updated with a collection of harbor photos over the years. Help us date these photos that have been donated by local residents.

Browse silent auction items, with gift-giving in mind. The auction features artwork, jewelry, note cards, hand-crafted items, and photography from your favorite local artists along with a selection of other items and gift certificates. Bidding for the silent auction closes at 4 pm. A complimentary wine tasting by Nautical Wheelers starts at 3 pm. Raffle tickets are available for the hand quilted and decorated "Dragons of Oriental" throw. The drawing will take place at the Spirit of Christmas in December.

The Civil War exhibit remains open through December. For more information on this event contact us at museum@dockline.net. Museum hours: Friday 11-3, Saturday 1-4, Sunday 1-4.

Steiger Ready To Help Students Tackle Their Challenges

By Sandy Wall, Pamlico Community College

Gretchen Steiger understands how difficult college can be for a non-traditional student, especially a single mother who works full time.

She knows because she's been there. "Throughout my educational career, I was faced with some of the same obstacles our students at Pamlico Community College face," the 26-year-old Pamlico County woman said. "I know there's a lot to being a successful student. It's a lot to balance."

Steiger is working hard to help PCC students achieve that balance and be successful as the college's new Student Support and Engagement Specialist.

In that role, she works to match students with the campus resources available to them. Steiger also coordinates student activities, and she's a friendly face for those who just want to drop in and talk about their challenges and their aspirations.

"My goal for this position is to be a 'guiding light' for students," she said.

Steiger graduated in May with a bachelor's degree in Business from East Carolina University - but her path to commencement wasn't a straight line.

After graduating from Pamlico County High School in 2009, she enrolled at N.C. State University in Raleigh.

Life's challenges soon intervened. She gave birth to a son, Caleb, and she went to work in various jobs while trying to keep up in school.

Steiger later moved back to Oriental, transferred to East Carolina University and commuted for classes. But the load was too much, so she had to take a break from school so she could focus on her son and her job in New Bern.

"It could be overwhelming," Steiger said.

After an 18-month break, she went back to ECU last fall and completed her degree. Her son is now a first-grader at Pamlico County Primary School in Bayboro.

Steiger said her experiences should help her to relate with PCC students who are in similar circumstances. She hopes to remind them that they need to do what's best for themselves and their families and not to worry about competing with others.

"It's not a race," she said. "You have to do everything at your own pace and do what's right for you."

Steiger also said she hopes to offer the kind of assistance she could have used when she was in college.

The idea of going to college has been very important to her since she was in middle school, she said. Steiger also said she's pleased to have landed a job at a college where she can have a positive influence on local residents' lives.

"I've seen the impact that Pamlico Community College has had on this community," she said. "This position really stood out to me. It was a position that was going to help me make a difference for students. This is home, and this was definitely the right choice for me."

PCC President Dr. Jim Ross said he was confident that Steiger would fit in well at PCC.

"We are fortunate to have Gretchen Steiger join our team," he said. "She understands the value of a good education, and we know this community is very important to her. I am confident she will work hard to help our students succeed here so they can improve their lives and this community."

Steiger is part of the college's Student Services team. Her office is in the Johnson Building, room 110, and her phone number is 252-249-1851, ext. 3023.

Sandy Wall can be reached at 252-249-1851, ext. 3010, or swall@pamlico-cc.edu.

Pamlico Animal Welfare Society (PAWS)
"NEW LEASH ON LIFE" Program
"Everyone deserves a second chance."

PAWS rescues adoptable shelter dogs and pairs them with inmate trainers at the Pamlico Correctional Institution. The inmates learn patience, responsibility and teamwork along with new, marketable skills. The dogs are vetted, vaccinated and altered, house, crate and leash trained, and receive basic and advanced obedience, agility and rally training. These well-behaved companions graduate every eight weeks, ready to join new, forever families - maybe yours?

Mia is my name and I have plenty of self confidence. I'm a 3 year old lab mix, so we could have many years together for lots of excellent adventures. I get along well with other dogs and have found myself without a home due to my family being deployed. A medium size dog that is just looking for a family and will be a well trained doggie after graduating from Pamlico's New Leash on Life program in October.

I'm Isabelle and a sweeter dog you won't find. I so truly want to please my family, a medium size girl with a low energy level that is around 1 1/2 years old. A very obedient girl that will come and sit when asked, has been good with other dogs large or small and cats. I also really love children, so hopefully you have some around. Up to date on all my vaccinations, spayed, and fully vetted I can't wait to meet you, so Please call 252-670-6129 soon to set up a meet and greet. I'm available for adoption right away.

All New Leash on Life dogs are fully vetted, altered, heartworm tested, and micro chipped. After they've graduated from the New Leash on Life program they have 8 weeks of crate training, housebreaking, leash experience, with some obedience and agility work. If you're interested in adopting one of our dogs contact Jackie at 252-649-5504 or Penny at 252-249-1453 and fill out an adoption application at Pamlicopaws.net. All adopting families are invited to their dog's graduation the middle of October.

PCC President Dr. Jim Ross Speaks Out on...Serving Our Community With Free Use Of Our Delamar Center!

Pamlico Community College's middle name is community, and we take this very seriously. We provide education in many ways to change lives and make our community even better. We also offer use of the Delamar Center, one of the most beautiful facilities in any community college, to our community.

The Delamar Center is one of many parts of PCC that helps us serve our wonderful community in important ways and to live up to our middle name. We are pleased to announce that it is being used much more frequently than at any time in its 10-year history – and that makes us extremely happy because it makes our community even better.

Within a two-week period of time last month, the facility has hosted the SPOTLIGHT Pamlico Business EXPO and Job Fair and the NAACP Freedom Fund Dinner. Both events brought hundreds of community residents to our campus.

I was fortunate to be able to attend both activities and enjoyed them immensely. They allowed me to visit with many friends and enjoy the uplifting mood of each event.

In addition, each event presented the opportunity to meet a number of people who had never before been to PCC. At both, several community residents expressed to me how thankful they were that a facility like the Delamar Center is here and available for community use.

Appropriate credit continues to go to Linda Sanderson, wife of Sen. Norman Sanderson, for asking me last year at this time to look for ways to allow the community to use the Delamar Center more often.

After researching her suggestion thoroughly and talking to many people about this for two months, I announced a change last December that has made an extraordinary difference to our community. That change was to permanently allow Pamlico County non-profit groups and causes to rent the Delamar Center free of charge for their events and activities.

That change was made last December. Since then, usage of the building has risen an astonishing 300% above what it was projected to be.

Our college is fortunate to have a facility such as the Delamar Center. We are honored to make it as available as possible for the community's use. In every event we have seen, the fruits are all good from it as community members come together in a spirit of joy, celebration, and often love.

Often an event held there serves as an inspiration for me as much as it does for its organizers and participants.

The NAACP Freedom Fund event on September 30 was one such event.

Hundreds of people of varying races and backgrounds turned out for the inspiring event. The theme for the evening was "Forward Together, Not One Step Back," and the mood at the event was extremely uplifting. Several local religious leaders were recognized, and numerous awards were handed out. The entertainment was provided by three incredibly talented vocalists. They were so good, in fact, that it seemed like they could have been singing on Broadway!

The event in its entirety was moving, with the featured speaker Gregory Brad Cutler wowing the audience. Comments from Douglas Pearsall, NAACP President, were mesmerizing as he revealed what it was like to engage in combat service for our nation, be wounded, receive medals, and then come home to find that he was not allowed to enter the same businesses as others because of his color. Just the experience of having people from our community of all races, nationalities, and religions enjoying such a night of harmony together was as moving as the wonderful event itself. Among the community leaders attending were PCC Board members Larry Prescott, Dr. Sue H. Lee, Al Herlands, Ernestine Mattocks, and Douglas Pearsall.

The annual Business EXPO and Job Fair was held a few days earlier on September 19 and was also a huge success. Another large crowd packed the Delamar Center that evening, this time to learn more about the business offerings and job opportunities available here at home.

The college's Career Center joined with the Pamlico County Chamber of Commerce and Pamlico County Economic Development to put on the event, which featured more than 40 exhibitors.

The mood at the three-hour Business EXPO and Job Fair was upbeat and optimistic. Job-seekers and prospective employers were able to meet face to face while area businesses, non-profit groups and others got a chance to showcase their products and service offerings.

Free samples of delicious food were given away by local restaurants. The only bad part of the evening was the five pounds I have worked diligently to lose the past several weeks was all back on in one night! But it was worth it!

It was great to see Senator Norman Sanderson, PCI Superintendent Faye Daniels, and County Manager Tim Buck there as well as many other leaders from the community's business and non-profit sectors. Pamlico County Chamber of Commerce

HEARING LOSS

Now linked to Dementia & Alzheimer's Disease

Don't ignore the WARNING signs:

- Increasingly frustrated and socially isolated
- Unable to hear well in social settings
- Ask others to repeat themselves
- You hear, but don't understand
- Others repeatedly ask you to turn down the television?

"We followed 639 people, ages 36 to 90 for nearly 12 years, and found that for each 10-decibel loss in hearing, the risk of dementia rose about 20 percent among the participants. Compared with those who could hear normally when first examined, the risk of dementia doubled among those with mild hearing loss, tripled among those with moderate hearing loss and increased fivefold among those with severe hearing loss."

Research has proven that exercise is medicine for people with Parkinson's Disease (PD). There is mounting evidence that exercise not only helps people with Parkinson's improve their strength, balance, coordination, mobility and cardiovascular health, but for also has the potential to slow their disease progression. Learn which exercises work best for you and how to use them to treat your Parkinson's Disease at the Parkinson's Exercise Prescription being. Diet will also be discussed during a Sunday lunch.

Professionally-guided sample sessions of Parkinson's Disease classes that are being offered include: Rock Steady Boxing; tandem cycling; dance; Yoga and Nordic walking.

Dr. Jennifer Smart, who applied for a grant to bring the PEP retreat to Oriental, will be a presenter at the retreat. Smart, a therapist at Oriental Village Health and Fitness, found that there were a lot of PD patients whose medical providers advised them to step up their exercise regimens, but provided no guidance on how to do it. She holds a Physical Therapy degree from the University of Maryland and her Doctorate from UNC-Chapel Hill is LSVT-Big and Parkinson's Wellness and Recovery certified. She is a Rock Steady Boxing coach and developed and manages a PD-specific tandem cycling program.

Registration for this 2 day event is $75. This includes all lectures and exercise sessions, plus lunches for both the PWP and their partner. Dinner option is an additional $20 per person. Preregistration and medical releases are required.

This retreat has been made possible by a grant from The National Parkinson's Foundation, using funds raised through Moving Day NC Triangle. To register or for additional information call (252) 249-1869 or go to www.PEPretreat.com

Hoi Toiders, Whistle Pigs and Kelvinators, Talkin' Tarheel With Walt Wolfram

If you've ever spotted a whistle pig or know what a Kelvinator is, then you just might be fluent in Tar Heel. If you pronounce Buies Creek, Cashie River and Chicamacomico like a native, then you might be fluent in Tar Heel. The linguistic diversity and dialects of North Carolina will be the topic of the October 12 Lunch & Learn at the Chelsea Restaurant at 11:30 a.m. Linguist Walt Wolfram will share stories, sights, and sounds from his book Talkin' Tar Heel: How Our Voices Tell the Story of North Carolina (UNC Press, 2014).

North Carolina's dialects go beyond the stereotypical Southern twang. Wolfram explores the distinct dialects of African-Americans, recent Spanish-speaking immigrants, mountain residents, the Cherokee and Lumbee, and the Hoi Toiders – "High Tiders," a nickname for Outer Banks natives.

Walt Wolfram is William C. Friday Distinguished University Professor at North Carolina State University, where he also directs the North Carolina Language and Life Project. He has pioneered research on social and ethnic dialects since the 1960s and published more than 20 books and over 300 articles. He has written books on Outer Banks dialects, (Hoi Toide on the Outer Banks: The Story of the Ocracoke Brogue), Lumbee English, Appalachian English, and African American English in North Carolina, and with Jeff Reaser, published Talkin' Tar Heel: How our Voices Tell the Story of North Carolina (2014).

Lunch & Learn starts at 11:30 a.m. at the Chelsea Restaurant, 335 Middle Street, New Bern. The cost is $18 for Historical Society members and $20 for non-members; lunch is included. Advance reservations must be made in by calling the New Bern Historical Society at 252-638-8558, or can be ordered at www.NewBernHistorical.org/tickets. Lunch choices are: Shrimp and Grits and Pork Tenderloin with Blueberry Ginger Glaze, Garlic Mashed Potatoes with seasonal vegetables.

The mission of the New Bern Historical Society is to celebrate and promote New Bern and its heritage through events and education. Offices are located in the historic Attmore Oliver House at 511 Broad Street in New Bern. Heroes & Hooligans...They Walk Among Us!

It is that time of year again, and the New Bern Historical Society is preparing its 27th annual Ghostwalk, Heroes & Hooligans... They Walk Among Us!. Each Ghostwalk brings a whole new batch of characters from New Bern's colorful and varied past to tell you their stories right in the very places they might have been seen in life. Don't worry though, all these spirits are from history, not from science fiction. So as night falls in New Bern's Historic District October 26-28, keep an eye out for shady characters and good guys as well.

This year there will be 13 different ghost haunts in historic houses, churches and businesses, and of course in Cedar Grove Cemetery where candlelit paths will lead to plenty of eerie entertainment! If you dare pass under the weeping gates you will meet the cemetery's famous grave diggers who will try to convince you to stay... forever. If you get past them, be on the lookout for the many ghostly characters whose lives shaped our city as they appear and disappear before your eyes.

New Bern's two historic theatres will open their doors again with special performances. Expect a lighthearted mystery-comedy, featuring the Dowd family at the Attmore-Oliver House. Of course, the Veri-Good Bakery itself will appear with lots of delicious goodies.

Historic churches will also be ready with more hearty fare such as chili, pasta, hot dogs and sandwiches.

Hauntings begin Thursday, October 26, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Expect ghost sightings at the cemetery and entertainment at both theatres and the Attmore-Oliver House. An additional nine ghost sites are open Friday, October 27 and Saturday, October 28 from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Tickets are $17 in advance and $22, the day of the event. Special pricing for active duty military, their dependents and students, all with ID at $13. Children 3-12 are $5 and under 3 free. Tickets are available on line at www.NewBernHistorical.org/ghostwalk.

Check the website for complete outlet information, or call 252-638-8558. Title Sponsor, Chesnutt, Clemmons and Peacock. Media sponsorship provided by WITN and Public Radio East.

Financial Focus: Does Market Volatility Scare You?

Dan M. Roberts, IV
Financial Advisor

Halloween is almost upon us. Of course, on Halloween night, you may see a parade of monsters, demons, Transformers and other frightening individuals stopping by your house, exercising their right to demand candy. Fortunately, their appearance will be unlikely to cause you unpleasant dreams. But some people seem to have real fears about other things – such as what may happen in the financial markets. One way to keep those fears at bay is to avoid certain impulsive moves, such as the following:

- Avoid ducking out of the market – Consider this: In March 2007, the Dow Jones Industrial Average stood at about 12,275 points. Exactly two years later, in the immediate aftermath of the financial crisis, the Dow had fallen to about 6,500 – a drop of 47% and the Dow's lowest point in 12 years. By that time, a lot of people had gone to the investment sidelines. So, what did they miss? Depending on how long they stayed out of the market, they may have missed some, or perhaps most, of one of the longest and strongest bull markets in history, because, just eight years later, the Dow had soared to almost 21,000, a gain of 223%. Of course, investing does involve the risk of losing principal, and there is no guarantee the market will perform as it has in the past. However, it's fair to say that if you duck out of the market during its lower points, you might not benefit from the gains that may follow.

- Avoid chasing "hot" stocks – By the time you hear about a supposedly "hot" stock, it may already be cooling off. Also, how trustworthy is the source? Does this tip come from an unbiased, knowledgeable individual? If not, you have reason to question its value. Even more important, though, you need to ask if the hot stock is appropriate for your needs, goals and risk tolerance. If not, it's not so hot.

- Avoid taking on too much – or too little – risk. If you feel the need to push your portfolio toward the maximum possible returns, you might invest too aggressively and take on too much risk. Conversely, if you are determined to avoid any amount of loss, at any time, you might invest so conservatively that your portfolio won't grow enough to help you achieve your long-term goals. You need to strike a balance between risk and reward that is appropriate for you, and you need to make investment choices suitable for your individual risk tolerance.

- Avoid owning too many of the same investments – If you own a lot of one particular financial asset and a market downturn affects that asset class strongly, your portfolio could suffer. But if you spread your investment dollars among domestic and international stocks, bonds, U.S. Treasury securities, certificates of deposit (CDs) and so on, you may not be as susceptible to a downturn, because different types of investments often perform differently at any given time. (Keep in mind, though, that while diversification can help reduce the effects of market volatility, it can't guarantee profits or protect against all losses.)

No matter what you do, you can't take all the uncertainty out of investing. But by understanding market volatility and the composition of your portfolio, you can invest with more confidence.

Ballot Changes Should Be Welcome

John Hood,
Chairman, John
Locke Foundation

RALEIGH — Democrats, progressive activists, and left-leaning editorialists haven't liked past ideas from Republicans to change the way North Carolina's elections are run. They haven't liked voter-identification laws, they haven't liked reattaching partisan labels to judicial elections, and they don't like a new set of judicial districts proposed by House Republicans.

GOP majorities in both chambers have just passed a set of voting changes, however, that I think Democratic Gov. Roy Cooper and his partisan and ideological allies ought to like. Could we be dangerously close to bipartisan consensus? I hope so.

Earlier this year, then-Sen. Andrew Brock of Davie County introduced legislation, Senate Bill 656, that sought to make it easier for third parties and unaffiliated candidates to get listed on North Carolina ballots. In June, Brock resigned from the state senate to accept appointment to the state panel that reviews unemployment claims. But other lawmakers continued to champion his ballot-reform measure.

During a recent special session, both legislative chambers passed a modified version of SB 656. While not quite as accommodating to third parties and unaffiliated candidates as before, it still lowers the threshold – the number of signatures they must obtain or votes they must earn in past elections – in order to acquire or maintain a position on future ballots. I think it's remarkable and praiseworthy that Republican lawmakers would support these ballot-access changes, which are unlikely to advance their partisan interests.

Another change in the bill, likely a more consequential one, reduces the threshold for winning an electoral primary in North Carolina to 30 percent of the vote, down from 40 percent. At first glance, you may think this change is less praiseworthy, or even alarming. But please think again.

Only 10 states require candidates to receive more than a plurality of the vote in order to win a primary. Does that mean a candidate can win a Democratic or Republican nomination in those states with, say, 35 percent of the vote? Yes. That's the rule in most of the country. It's hardly a novel idea.

Moreover, the history of runoff-primary requirements isn't a pretty one. Most of the states that have them are in the South, and adopted their rules in the early 20th century, when the Democrats were overwhelmingly the majority. This was the Democratic Party of the past, of segregation. Establishment white Democrats were happy to accept the votes of blacks or white populists, but did not relish the idea that blacks or populists might win Democratic primaries.

So Democratic lawmakers instituted the requirement that a primary candidate get 50 percent plus one vote in order to avoid a runoff. Its primary purpose was to exclude blacks from the general-election ballot. It usually worked.

In 1989, North Carolina actually took a step in the right direction by lowering its runoff-primary threshold to 40 percent. Lowering it further today is a good idea.

Is it troubling that candidates can qualify for the general election with less than a majority in the primary? Perhaps. But the alternatives are worse. Runoff primaries are expensive, low-turnout affairs. Most of the time, the top vote-getter the first time wins the second time. And in cases where the initial second-place finisher ends up winning the runoff, it's not so obvious that's a more "democratic" outcome, given that the runoff turnout is often tiny. The "winner" may end up with many fewer total votes, first and second primaries combined, than the "loser" gets.

Another alternative, a ranked-choice or "instant runoff" primary, would address the turnout problem. Primary voters indicate which candidate they'd prefer if their top choice was mathematically excluded from winning. Such a system makes sense conceptually but can be confusing. North Carolina has already dabbled with it. Many voters didn't like it.

The bill in question also modifies filing and eliminates primaries for judicial candidates in 2018, possibly in advance of a proposed change in North Carolina's judicial-selection process, so Gov. Cooper may decide to veto it. Still, increasing ballot access and discouraging runoffs are worthy reforms.

D.G. Martin Column-One on One: Wiley Cash's North Carolina History Lesson

D.G. Martin, "NC
Bookwatch"

Can we trust the people who taught us our state's history when we were growing up?

Or do we have to turn to fiction writers to open the doors to a true version of North Carolina's past?

In his 1997 "Cold Mountain," Charles Frazier destroyed our glorious and heroic images of the Civil War, replacing them with visions of brutal conflict, hunger, mean-spiritedness, treachery, disappointment and desertion.

"Cape Fear Rising," Phillip Gerard's 1994 fictional account of events in 1898, brought out the true facts of Wilmington's nightmare racial conflict.

Released this month, Wiley Cash's novel, "The Last Ballad," set in 1929's Gaston County's textile mill country, forces us to confront uncomfortable facts about the brutal conditions workers faced on the job and in their struggles to make a life on their meager pay.

Ella May Wiggins, the lead character in Cash's book, is based on a real person, who was killed while participating in a major strike at Loray Mills in Gastonia. As Cash explains in the October issue of "PineStraw" magazine, the 28-year-old Wiggins had given birth to nine children and was working a 72-hour week for which she earned $9. She wrote and sang protest songs, some of which were later performed by Woody Guthrie.

On the frame of this real character, Cash builds a moving story that puts readers in Wiggins's shoes as she walks the two miles every evening from her hovel in Stumptown to American Textile Mill #2 in Bessemer City, works all night in the dirt and dust and clacking noise, and then walks back to tend to the children she had left alone the entire night.

Cash follows her decision to support the strike at Loray Mills where her ballad singing at worker rallies mobilized audiences more than the speeches of union leaders. He relates how her actions provoked negative responses from union opponents that led to her death.

Along the way we meet people who framed her life: her no-good husband John, her no-good boyfriend Charlie, the Goldberg brothers who ran the mill where she worked, her African American co-worker and neighbor Violet, the union strike leaders, a 12-year-old worker who loses half his hand when it caught in the mill's machinery, and Wiggins's children as they struggle through hunger and illness.

The picture Cash paints is an ugly one, showing conditions of Wiggins and her fellow workers to be only a step or two away from serfdom and slavery.

Education for the workers or their children was a pipe dream, as Wiggins explained to a fictionalized U.S. Senator Lee Overman, who had told a striker she should be in school.

"Let me tell you something," Wiggins shouted at Overman. "I can't even send my own children to school. They ain't got decent enough clothes to wear and I can't afford to buy them none. I make nine dollars a week, and I work all night and leave them shut up in the house all by themselves. I had one of them sick this winter and I had to leave her there just coughing and crying."

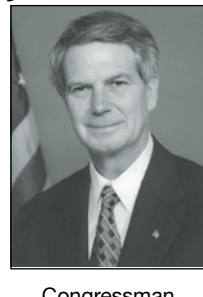

Writing in "PineStraw," Cash, who grew up in Gastonia, tries to explain what made writing about Wiggins so difficult. "How could I possibly put words to the tragedies in her life and compress them on the page in a way that allowed readers to glean some semblance of her struggle?"

I am not sure how Cash did it, but what he put in words brought Wiggins and the oppressive times in which she lived into full focus.

And those words and the story they tell confirm Cash's place in the pantheon of North Carolina's great writers.

D.G. Martin hosts "North Carolina Bookwatch," which airs Sundays at noon and Thursdays at 5 p.m. on UNC-TV.

Jones Casts No Vote On Another Bloating Budget

Congressman
Walter B. Jones

"When we're already $20 trillion in debt and running $700 billion annual deficits, we can't afford to keep doing this."

WASHINGTON, DC – Congressman Walter B. Jones (NC-3) continued his fight against wasteful government spending and voted against H. Con. Res. 71, legislation establishing the congressional budget for fiscal year 2018, as well as budgetary guidelines for the following ten fiscal years. H. Con. Res. 71 proposes to increase the debt limit by over $2 trillion, which would bring our national debt to well over $23 trillion.

"This is not a conservative or responsible budget," said Congressman Jones. "It provides for a large increase in fiscal year 2018 discretionary spending that is not offset, which will add to our already unsustainable deficit and debt. It proposes to increase, not decrease, federal budgetary outlays each and every year for the next ten years, from $3.16 trillion this year, to over $3.8 trillion in 2027. For the next ten years it would keep spending hundreds of billions through the off-budget, deficit-financed Overseas Contingency Operation account, which is the primary vehicle for the ongoing waste, fraud and abuse of American taxpayers' money in Afghanistan. When we're already $20 trillion in debt and running $700 billion annual deficits, we can't afford to keep doing this."

H. Con. Res. 71 passed the House by a vote of 219-206, and will be sent to the Senate for further consideration.

Congressman Jones has devoted his time in service to sounding the alarm about wasteful spending and the rising debt. He has consistently voted against raising the debt limit and wasteful spending bills. He is the only member of Congress to vote against every bloated budget over the past 13 years. Over that time the national debt has grown nearly $13 trillion, over $1 trillion a year.

For additional information, please contact Allison Tucker in Congressman Walter Jones' office at Allison.tucker@mail.house.gov or (202) 225-3415.

Some soy beans are brown and appear ready for harvest while those on the farm are beginning to turn yellow and should be ready for harvest near the end of the month. It seems where I travel, all of the corn has been harvested, and many of the fields have been burned, bush-hogged, or disked. On my way to church today I noticed that there is a really nice beautiful white crop of cotton growing in Blount's Creek on highway 33.

There is some road construction taking place on Pamlico Road. It appears that several culverts are being replaced. This work is long overdue. Now there are several bumps in the road. I pray that when they finish these bumps will be smoothed out.

Pamlico Community and I extend a hearty welcome to Reverend Joshua Eom and his family. Reverend Eom is the new pastor at Arapahoe UMC and Alliance UMC. We pray blessings upon his ministry here.

I drove to Morehead on Friday to attend the opening of "The Seafood Festival." This was the first time I had been to the largest festival in North Carolina. I was lucky to find on street parking just a few blocks away. It gave me a chance to save some money and get some much needed exercise. I especially liked the booth that gave out free coupons and free samples. The Duke's Mayonnaise and the Challenge Butter booths were my favorites. I especially liked the seafood demonstrations by Ms. Sarah Willis of Harker's Island. Her recipes were similar to my own, but gave me some new tips to shape my crab cakes and a couple of different ingredients to add to my shrimp 'n grits. She gave everyone ample samples to taste. Yum! Yum!

On Saturday Oriental celebrated the Ol' Front Porch Festival. I was blessed to hear "The Harbor Sounds" play on the Stalling's House front porch that morning. There was a special treat when two young students of Dixie Gatlin came up to play their violins during a brief intermission for The Harbor Sounds." I had a nice seat with a view and a wonderful breeze off of the Neuse River. I purchased a collectible pin for this year's festival to help support the festival in years to come.

On Saturday at 2 p.m. there was a memorial service for Franklin M. Keller, Sr. at Pamlico United Methodist Church. Reverend Mike Roach officiated, Jenny Lupton sang some beautiful songs, and the Keller children gave meaningful testimonies about their dad.

On October 15, the "Second Edition" will be in concert at Stonewall UMC at 6:30 p.m. Reverend Carol Grantham invites everyone to come and enjoy their musical presentation.

On October 19 at 7 p.m., all the United Methodist churches in the county, as well as some from Beaufort County, will gather at Reelsboro UMC for their annual charge conference.

Carla Byrnes, is staying with family at 782 Chair Road, New Bern, NC 28560. That is the address to use if you want to send her a card. Carla, we are all praying for a speedy recovery.

On November 3, Vandemere UMC will have a spaghetti dinner fund raiser. The money will go into the church's local benevolent fund to assist residents of Pamlico County. Call 252-670-9428 for more information.

Celebrating birthdays in October are Henry Mahlman and Joannis Rodgers (10/10), John Deaton (10/15), Jeanette Miske (10/28), Jeremy Freeman (10/29), and Linda Gail Lupton (10/31). If I missed your birthday, call me and leave a message at 249-7214.

Have a blessed week. Knowledgeable? Take Spiritual Vitamin K. "Know this that the Lord is God, it is He that made us and not we ourselves." (Psalms 100:3)

Goose Creek Island

Goose Creek Island 55 Plus Club met Thursday at the Community Center. Special guest speaker was Mitchell Sadler who spoke about the Barnett Cemetery in Hobucken. The cemetery was founded in 1860 and Ester Midgette Barnett was buried there in 1860 and Stephen Barnett in 1864. A 1938 Pamlico County survey listed the cemetery as "Alcock Cemetery."

Mr. Amos Ireland owned the adjoining land and began selling plots in 1948. This section is known as the "new part." Six graves in the new part have no headstone and probably many more in the original cemetery. Mitchell is planning to contact relatives of those with no markers. Also, there is about 130 plots that have been purchased but never used. He also plans to contact the owners of these plots. Sue Gaskill Gilgo and Mae Gaskill Lupton are treasurer's of the Cemetery Fund which is collected to pay for mowing. Notices are mailed when funds are needed. If you would like to be on the mailing list please contact Sue or Mae. Thanks to Mitchell for taking such good care of our cemetery.

We were delighted to have Alma Swindell Ferrell and Sammy & Cathy Swindell as our guests. Sammy helps take care of the Brickyard Cemetery in the marshes. We sang Happy Birthday to Brenda Watson Lewis and Happy Anniversary to Ila Dowdy and Roland Leary, Jr. (51 years) & Langston and Rosanne Gaskill Rowe (51 years).

Prayer List: Musa Voliva Harris developed pneumonia and was readmitted to Pruitt Nursing Home. Rose Rowe, wife of the late Orien

The weeks seem to go so swiftly by and the weather is getting better every day. Rev. Charles Hardison was the guest minister at Bethel on Sunday. Reverend Caton was away for a homecoming in one of his former churches.

Darlene Law had surgery last week and is doing well. Carla Byrnes is recuperating at daughter Beth's home after being hospitalized after an automobile accident. Carol Small is fighting cancer again but they all continue to be so upbeat with these challenges.

Woodmen Life met on Friday evening at the lodge in Florence, elected officers, and discussed plans for the rest of the year. Woodmen Life is a fraternal insurance organization that gives back to the community. Hundreds of American flags are given to churches, organizations, and individuals every year. When a group has a flag that needs replacing, Woodmen will give a new flag. Two hundred pounds of food was taken to Fishes and Loaves recently from members of Woodmen. Thanks to Santa Klotz for delivering the food. Make a Difference Day is October 25th and the Woodmen will be in the communities making a difference. Woodmen Christmas Awards Banquet is open to the first fifty adult members who send $5.00 co-pay to the treasurer. Contact Verna Roberson at 252-249-0611 or Marena Hayes at 252-717-7708. The dinner will be at the Carolina Grill in New Bern.

Weeks sister Bobbie and niece Frances were in Myrtle Beach last week and met David and Melba Paul on two occasions. Eric Bryan was home for spring break and joined Kevin, Suzy, Melydia, Maura, and myself on the back porch at Nick Santoros home. Nick's daughter Alyce is leaving this week to go back to Texas but will be returning soon to be here with her father. Barry Mills was doing cart wheels in Charlotte last week. He was playing in a Bo Jangles Golf Tournament, made a hole in one on the eleventh hole and won a Mazda car! Congratulations to Barry!

This Sunday will be Pastor Appreciation Day at Bethel with a dinner following the service. Elizabeth Cuthrell is studying hard for a nursing program and substituting at school. Patty Mills is teaching one of the nurse's courses at Pamlico Community College. The "Front Porch" was very successful last weekend with a lot of folks in Oriental for the occasion. Prayers for Roy Barnhill. Happy Birthday to Flo Sylvia. Thought for the week--One flag, One land, One heart, One hand, One nation evermore! (Oliver Wendall Holmes, Sr.)

State Fire Marshal Causey Hosts Fire Prevention Week Press Conference

Insurance Commissioner Mike Causey kicks off Fire Prevention Week across North Carolina, and asks citizens to remember fallen firefighter Jason Keith Hensley, who died Sunday.

RALEIGH — Insurance Commissioner and State Fire Marshal Mike Causey, along with other state and local fire officials, kicked off Fire Prevention Week on Monday by reminding North Carolinians that, “Every second counts: Plan two ways out.”

Raleigh Fire Chief John McGrath said extinguishing fires is not the only mission of the fire department.

“The core mission is the prevention of those fires,” Chief McGrath said. “The best fire is the one that doesn’t occur. But if it does, we want people to understand that they are more important than anything. Things can be replaced. People cannot.”

Chief McGrath said every fire department has a major commitment of people safely getting out of a fire. He said Fire Prevention Week is an important opportunity to recommit to the message of reminding people of fire prevention basics.

Terrell Watkins is one of those survivors. Twenty-seven years ago, at age 13, Watkins was severely burned in a fire. He said 75 percent of his body was burned, all third-degree burns from the waist up. He praised the firefighters standing behind him at Monday’s kickoff, and the people at the N.C. Burn Center in Chapel Hill who helped him recover.

“That particular place could have been my grave, but the powers that be said that this is not the time for you right now,” Watkins said. “Ever since that day, I try to live my life to the fullest and let the other survivors know they can still make it.

Watkins went on to play football at Winston-Salem State University and spends time at Camp Celebrate, a weekend camp for children who have survived burn injuries at the N.C. Burn Center in Chapel Hill.

Chief State Fire Marshal Brian Taylor announced that Gov. Roy Cooper had issued a proclamation proclaiming this week as Fire Prevention Week in North Carolina.

Commissioner Causey also asked those assembled outside the Albemarle Building in Raleigh, which houses the N.C. Department of Insurance, to pause for a moment of silence for Burke County firefighter Jason Keith Hensley, who was killed when he was struck by a car while clearing storm debris from a road in Morganton Sunday.

“When firefighters go out, you never know what’s going to happen,” Causey said.

Smokey the Bear and Sparky the Fire Dog were on hand for the Fire Prevention Week kickoff, along with Cinder, the Raleigh Fire Department’s dog that helps educate children in fire prevention.

A 1905 American LaFrance horse-drawn steamer and a 1926 American LaFrance fire engine were among the fire trucks on display during the kickoff.

Military Training Operations Down East For October

MARINE CORPS AIR STATION CHERRY POINT, NC- There will be a large ground force training exercise taking place at Marine Corps Auxiliary Landing Field Bogue (Bogue Field) and at Marine Corps Outlying Landing Field Atlantic (Atlantic Field) during the entire month of October. There will be an increase in military vehicular activity around both airfields during this time.

U.S. Navy special boat teams will conduct navigation training in and around Cherry Point waterways, and will conduct surface direct live fire operations at Marine Corps Bombing Target 9 in the eastern Pamlico Sound October 17-19 and 30-31.

Boaters should remain clear of the restricted areas surrounding Bombing Targets 9 and 11. This is also a reminder to boaters and hunters that Bombing Target 11, commonly known as Piney Island in the southern Pamlico Sound, is a U.S. Government restricted area. Trespassers risk serious injury or death, as well as prosecution for trespassing.

Celebrate Oriental Town Docks

On Thursday October 19 at 1:30 p.m. the Pamlico Musical Society and the Harbor Waterfronts Advisory Committee (HWAC) invite you to a celebration (rhymes with "maybe") are decked out in denims and boots or fashionably dressed to the nines in makeup, skirts and heels, the fresh-faced, clean-cut sisters, all in their 20's, look as good as they sound.

Not surprisingly, the Quebe Sisters win standing ovations at just about every show. It's been that way since 2000, when they started fiddling together as pre-teens. The trio's evolution from the whiz-kid Western swing fiddlers they were back then to the smokin'-hot young adult Americana band they are today is a remarkable story, by any measure. Along with headlining their own shows to ever-growing audiences, they've shared stages with American music legends like Willie Nelson, George Strait, Merle Haggard, Ricky Skaggs, the Gatlin Brothers, and many others. This event is made possible, in part, by a grant from the North Carolina Arts Council, a Division of the Department of Cultural Resources. This event is FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC. There will be Free Hot dogs and fixings from 1-2:30 of the Oriental Town Docks as a Clean Marina Designation at The Bean and Town Dock #1. The Quebe Sisters, Texas-style fiddlers and vocalists, will perform; hotdogs and refreshments will be provided.

When these fiddle champions from Texas start playing and singing in three-part close harmony, audiences are transfixed and then blown away. The trio's vocal and instrumental performances are authentic all-Americana. And, whether the Quebes

We challenge you to a friendly competition with other businesses and organizations at the 10th Annual Chili Cookoff fundraiser for the Old Theater. This event will take place on Saturday, October 28, 2017 from 11:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m., at the Oriental Marina.

Can't cook? You can help behind the scenes by donating funds that will help pay for things like event advertising, tents table covers, cups and spoons. Organizations and businesses that support this event will get their name announced on stage as well as recognition on video commercials that will precede Friday Flicks each month between November 2017 and October 2018.

All of these activities require a stage, lights, sounds and the support of many people who volunteer on stage and behind the scenes - people like YOU who appreciate how special it is for a town the size of Oriental to have a functioning theater that brings such a variety of entertainment to its community.

We need your help to make the 10th Annual Chili Cookoff a fun and successful community rallying event in support of the Old Theater for more information, contact Tom Cochran / tom.cochran61@gmail.com.

Pamlico County Middle School

Students in Ms. Betsy McCandless's 6th grade English Language Arts classes put their imaginations to good use when writing and filming vignettes for a lesson. After studying Point of View, the students wrote short scripts where two or more characters had varying perspectives on the same situation. Students developed these shorts with backstories for their characters that explained why they viewed the scenarios the way they did.

After writing the script and imagining the setting, students then filmed in front of the school's green screen where they were transported to fantasy locations. One group ended up in Harvard University's Library while another group imagined their scene in Oracle Arena, home of the Golden State Warriors. Another scene took place as astronauts on a distant planet where alien life had been discovered. This lesson was co-taught with Elizabeth Harwick, the Digital Learning Coordinator at PCMS, who also produced the videos. Students gathered together for a viewing day where they enjoyed the scenes and discussed the characters' points of view. The students are excited to use this technology as they create more scenes that will take them as far as their creativity will allow!

Students Learn Prezi's and Social Media Presence

Ms. Elizabeth Harwick visited Mrs. Durci's 8th grade ELA classes on October 4th to present two different lessons. One lesson was on digital citizenship, and the other lesson was about how to make a Prezi on any topic that they are studying in class. The students learned about their digital footprint, and how early it started. The classes also discussed how you need to be careful on social media and how you present yourself because it could hurt you later on for a future job or college application. Then, Ms. Harwick showed them the updated Prezi website. The kids have done Prezis before in 6th grade, but the new version is even better. The students practiced doing a Prezi about themselves for the rest of the class period. It is likely that they will be creating a presentation later on in their SS classes about the colonies or on the topic of the Revolutionary War. They were excited to learn, and engaged throughout the lesson. Both classes look forward to more great lessons in the future.

PCMS Recognized for Duke TIP

Some of our seventh grade students were honored with a reception on Thursday, September 21st. These students were recognized for the Duke TIP program. Duke TIP's 7th Grade Talent Search helps academically talented students identify their strengths, develop their abilities and interests, and celebrate their achievements at a crucial time when they are forming their identities and looking ahead to the future. Duke TIP recognizes only the top 5% of North Carolina's seventh graders. We are excited that we had so many to be recognized.

SCHOOL CLUBS

The clubs at PCMS are off to a fantastic start. This year we are excited to offer STEM, LEGO, Mathcounts, Envirothon, and the Nanoline Competition Team, Category 5. Kait Neeland from our local 4H office is also sponsoring our WHEP Club and Debate/ Public Speaking. Stay tuned to our Facebook page for updates on their activities.

Innovating through

7th Grade STEM just finished up a unit on Innovation where they created rubber band powered cars based on the designs they imagined and tested themselves. Here is a snapshot of the final races that focused on endurance, distance, and torque.

8th grade STEM has been learning about hydraulics by building and operating excavators powered by syringes. Steven, a hydraulic operator, came to demonstrate the way hydraulics work using a front loader. Students taught him about their excavators and he answered questions about hydraulics.

STEM Classes

Our STEM classes have been busy exploring hydraulics, rocketry, and cultivation all while practicing the steps of the engineering process. The hands on activities have been a hit and the enthusiasm of teacher Elizabeth Harwick is contagious. Ms. Harwick says, "It is awesome to see students find the real world connections to what they are learning in the classroom. They may learn about it initially in math or science and we are able to build on that knowledge and vice versa."

Pamlico County Middle School Flag Attendants Announced

Pamlico County Middle School proudly flies its flags each and every day. The two students 8th grade students responsible for that job is Jalyn Dunn and Naleigha Banks. Each morning, the students dutifully report to the media center. Then, each afternoon, they take the flags down and fold them. Both students have been taught the correct way to fold the flag and the importance and respect that should be shown to the American flag, including lowering it at half staff. They have to watch carefully when inclement weather comes, so the flags don't get wet. Both students take this job very seriously and are excited to have this responsibility. "It is always nice to have dependable students that take this job seriously" says Mrs. Kim Prescott, Media Coordinator. The students also have other daily jobs they do which include jobs in the media center, making morning announcements, getting our daily newspapers and other errands around the school.

Times Plummet At Southside Conference

By Cooper Metts
The male Hurricanes Cross Country team once again took first place on Wednesday at the Southside conference meet. The Lady Canes finished second overall.

"The boys continue to get better. They're still running tight as a pack," said Head Coach Paul Delamar.

The male Hurricanes top seven runners dropped their 5K personal best for the season by a whopping average time of 1:49. The male Canes once again dominated the conference with Jahmere Miller and David Rice finishing first and second individually. Miller's 5K time was 17:32 and Rice's 5K time was 17:33. Next to cross the finish line for the Canes was Alden Sylvester with a time of 18:04, Derrick Columbus with a time of 18:11, and Malik Barber with a time of 18:14. Closing out the Canes top seven was Josiah Stephen with a time of 18:26 and Cooper Metts with a time of 19:06.

"I'm not too concerned. I believe our guys will come through at the conference championship meet and assert themselves," Delamar said. "Sometimes it is hard to maintain that edge when you're winning big, running against the same opponents every week."

Despite the Hurricanes continuing dominance, there are several individual male runners in the conference that pose a competitive threat. These runners include Northside's Austin Newman, Tarboro's Raquavious Hopkins, Southside's Karoly Santiago, and Riverside's Gavin and Carter Wester.

The Lady Canes, led by sophomore Cameron Lee, finished second overall shortly behind the Cougars of Martin County's South Creek. "The girls need to make some major moves place-wise this up coming week, particularly against South Creek," said Delamar. Lee finished third overall in the meet and crossed the finish line with a 5K time of 21:49. Next to cross the finish line was Jainaya Jones with a time of 24:36, Macy Tyson with a time of 24:43, and Maegan Speciale with a time of 25:06. Rounding out the Canes top seven was Shawna Rigby with a time of 26:54, Kamryn Hough with a time of 27:19, and Skylar Watson with a time of 29:40.

"Both teams need to work on winning races between the second and third mile. Some of that is experience, developing a feel for when to surge, when to push the pace, and when to back off a little," said Delamar.

The Canes look to improve and continue their streak of dominance next week when South Creek High School hosts another conference meet. (Photos Courtesy Of Melissa Watson) spirit stick went to the 6th grade! The Football team beat Jones Middle by a score of 39-7. Our awesome marching band played a special performance at halftime. A special shout-out to the PCMS cheerleaders for a motivating Pep Rally. They also had the crowd pumped at the football game. Thursday, the fun didn't end as we hosted "We Go Together". This is generally our most creative theme and once again the students came through. We had monopoly pieces, thing 1 and thing 2, lost of twins, G-Suite ninjas, characters from the movie UP, a hunter and a deer and the list goes on. Friday rounded out the week with pajama day, yes roll out of bed come to school, but please brush your teeth.

Spirit Week was a huge success as every student participated in one way or another. The creativity and work they put into the outfits and costumes were outstanding. Each day of the week was dedicated to a certain theme. Monday consisted of team day. Students decked out in their favorite college or professional teams. Tuesday was "Mathlete" vs. "Athlete". Wednesday was our homecoming football game vs. Jones Middle and Black and Gold Day. The highlight of Wednesday afternoon was the PEP RALLY. The pep rally consisted of a parade of black and gold through the tunnel formed by the PCMS Cheerleaders. We had a pie eating contest, won by Coach Knox, and the spirit stick rally. The

Oriental Welcomes New Business Owner

Oriental welcomes its newest business owner, Catherine Mayo, to "O"town. Catherine Mayo has recently purchased Katherine Winfrey's accounting practice, K H Winfrey, Accounting and Income Tax Service.

Mrs. Winfrey was ready to retire and Ms. Mayo was ready to come back home.

However, Mrs. Winfrey will only "semi-retire" as she will remain part-time at the practice indefinitely. The two ladies grew up together in the area and share the same love of community and river life.

Ms. Mayo studied at East Carolina University, and has worked in public accounting for over 25 years. She holds a North Carolina license and is an active member of the North Carolina Accountants Society.

When Ms. Mayo is not preparing your taxes, you will find her biking around Oriental on her Specialized Dolce, walking with her golden doodle, kayaking the inland waters, or boating/sailing on the Neuse.

The winners of various door prizes were Joy Carrere of Trent Woods, Paula Nobles of Vanceboro, Nancy Potter of New Bern, Debbie Zang of New Bern, Janie Newton of Vandermere, Tracy Smith of Bayboro, Dianna Galloway of Aurora, Zeld Daniels of Alliance, Christina Howerin of Aurora, Chris Loboda of Minnesott Beach and Anna Jones of Aurora.
